01 Clearly defined learning objectives:

Beginning with a thorough understanding of what the student will learn on a journey allows EdTerra to link the curriculum with travel to create meaningful learning.

Document Your Journey

“Also appreciable is their Young Authors Program which enables the students to hone their writing skills and click photographs for their own publication in the form of a photo-book or a magazine. The EdTerra team is full of zeal and enthusiasm and is a big support to the students in their journey of knowledge.”

*Mrs. Anjali Aggarwal
Principal, St. Mark's Sr. Sec. School, Meera Bagh*

Each journey is an exploration that allows students to enter into an intimate dialogue with diverse cultures, landscapes, ideas and practices. Every journey has a story and EdTerra allows the participants to document and share their stories in their own words through video films, photo-books and magazines.

To enable students articulate their unique encounters and experiences through powerful, thought provoking stories, EdTerra has developed strong media training programs such as 'Young Authors Program', 'Young Film-Makers Program' and 'Digital Photography with Mr. Shutter Bug'. Depending on the journey, the schools are free to opt for a training program of their choice.

The idea of imparting creative media proficiency to students has probably turned EdTerra into the world's largest publisher of media, authored and photographed by students.

How Student Publications Strengthen Overseas College Application?

Educational Travel on a college application demonstrates initiative, maturity, creativity, well-rounded interests and an inquiring mind. If the applicant has co-authored a book or photographed and written for a magazine, it becomes evidence of his/her creative and intellectual abilities. A discussion on Renaissance art, Shaolin Kung Fu, or the future of space exploration can substantially enhance a college essay and will create a very positive impression in an interview.
